TEXAS BUSINESSMAN HAS ENOUGH NUCLEAR MISSILES TO BLOW AWAY SOUTH DAKOTA!

By MIKE FOSTER
Weekly World News

HOUSTON, Texas — A hardcore right-to-bear-arms advocate is daring the federal government to try to take away his private stash of nuclear missiles!

"Sure, the feds can have my nukes — when they pry them out of my cold, dead hands," vows longtime activist Donald J. Templow, who says he obtained his surplus Russian warheads on the black market and built his own rockets to deliver them.

The maverick businessman, who has spent at least half of his 52 years battling anti-gun laws, insists he is perfectly within his rights to keep the weapons — even though by his own admission, they could annihilate an area the size of South Dakota.

"The Second Amendment to the U.S. Constitution says in black and white, 'The right of the people to keep and bear arms shall not be infringed,' " he argues.

"The Founding Fathers didn't limit that to handguns and rifles — they meant any kind of arms."

'The law can't touch him,' says horrified Fed!

HE'S NO WEEKEND WARRIOR! Donald J. Templow stands proudly in front of one of his arsenal of nuclear missiles.

The four Russian army-surplus ICBMs ended up on the black market in Eastern Europe after the collapse of the old Soviet Union. An associate of the megabucks businessman bought the nukes from a cartel of cash-strapped former Russian army officers for about $400,000.

Templow refuses to divulge exactly how he got the weapons into the United States, or where he is storing them on his sprawling 12,000-acre ranch.

He also won't reveal the exact megatonnage of the warheads, but brags that his nukes "have enough combined firepower to create an 80,000-square-mile crater."

The gun-slinging tycoon claims he needs the H-bomb arsenal for his own protection.

"If Mexico invades the U.S. and there are suddenly hordes of wetback troops heading my way, I'm not waiting for any weak-kneed, indecisive sissies in Washington to take action," he declared.

Frustrated government officials say they are investigating Templow, but admit they don't know how to handle the unique case.

"The law can't touch him as of now because we have never actually seen the weapons in his possession and therefore have no actual proof he's violated state or federal statutes," said an insider at the Federal Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms.

Although authorities doubt that Templow has the capacity to launch nuclear missiles, they worry that the nukes may have been damaged during transportation and there might be leakage.

"Weapons-grade plutonium is highly radioactive — pound for pound, it's the most lethal substance known to man," said the ATF insider.

"This is a very, very dangerous situation."

JUST FOR LAUGHS

There was this Christian lady that had to do a lot of flying for her business but flying made her nervous. So she always took her Bible along with her to read and it helped relax her.

One time she was sitting next to a man. When he saw her pull out her Bible he gave a little chuckle and went back to what he was doing. After awhile he turned to her and asked, "You don't really believe all that stuff in there do you?"

He said, "Well what about that guy that was swallowed by that whale?"

She replied, "Oh, Jonah. Yes I believe that, it is in the Bible."

Then he asked, "Well, how do you suppose he survived all that time inside the whale?"

The lady said, "Well I don't really know. I guess when I get to Heaven I will ask him."

"But what if he isn't in Heaven?" the man asked sarcastically.

DEVASTATED boyfriend, Jimmy McHearnen.

TEEN KILLS HIS PROM DATE BY ACCIDENTALLY JABBING HER WITH A CORSAGE PIN!

By MITCH JOHNSON/Weekly World News

ATLANTA — A prom date ended in tragedy when teenager Wendy Aix died from a fast-acting lethal virus — that entered her body when her new boyfriend accidentally stuck her with a corsage pin!

Wendy, 16, died of a massive internal hemorrhage after her overanxious beau, 17-year-old Jimmy McHearnen, jabbed her with the pin while trying to attach a rose corsage to her gown.

A source at the Centers for Disease Control in Atlanta said preliminary findings indicate the girl's death was caused by "a super hantavirus" similar to the one that killed 13 people in New Mexico in June 1993.

"The virus grows in the hot, moist areas of South America," the CDC researcher said. "We traced the roses and found they were imported through Colombia.

"What disturbs us most is that this mutation is so virulent that it kills in minutes, unlike the New Mexico outbreak that took two days."

Doctors say the hantavirus apparently entered the girl's body through the puncture wound caused by the corsage pin.

"The family had no way of knowing about the virus," said a paramedic who arrived at the Aix home moments after the girl fell ill.

"Her mother said they were all laughing at Jimmy for being so clumsy, and Wendy was upset at him for sticking her.

"They cleaned a small amount of blood off her dress and were finishing taking pictures when Wendy said she felt nauseous and wanted to sit down.

"Apparently, she sat there for two minutes and then fell over onto the floor.

"By the time we arrived, she was dead.

"There was nothing we could do."

Authorities were quick to point out that this is the first known case of the virus being carried by flowers.

"We don't believe it's necessary to ban importing flowers from South America, but people should use caution when handling them," one specialist said.

Woman cons beauty out of $98,000 — by pretending to be a guy!

ACCUSED CON ARTIST Barbara Morrow has been charged with theft by deception & receiving stolen property.

Romance lasts 4 long years — and lonely divorcee never suspects a thing!

By MICHAEL FORSYTH/Weekly World News

BELLEFONT, Pa. — Cops say a lady con artist with a husky voice swindled another woman out of $98,000 by wooing her over the telephone — while pretending to be a man!

Attractive victim Linda Vongehr was swept off her feet by the deep-voiced caller who used the name Randy Dillard. And the long-distance romance went on for four years before she discovered to her horror that her hunky young "boyfriend" was really a middle-aged wo-man named Barbara Morrow.

By that time, Linda had turned over every penny she had to the scam artist, authorities say.

"Barbara Morrow has been charged with theft by deception and receiving stolen property," Centre County Assistant District Attorney Lance Marshall told Weekly World News.

Linda, a lonely divorcee in her mid-fifties, first encountered "Randy" in 1995 while surfing the channels of her CB radio in search of company.

The two hit it off immediately and before long, they were chatting by phone or CB up to six times a day.

Smooth-talking Randy, who claimed to be a prisoner in a Dallas jail, soon began to hit Linda up for cash, cops say.

"She was told he needed Marshall.

Head-over-heels in love with her unseen lover, Linda gladly turned over all her life savings — as well as credit card advances, retirement funds and money borrowed against her life insurance. She never saw Randy in person, but when she asked for a photo, crafty Barbara sent her the picture of a muscular hunk, authorities say.

Cops say that Barbara even made trips to Linda's home to pick up cash, using a different voice and claiming to be a "go between."

Finally, love-struck Linda turned over her last chunk of cash — a $62,000 lump sum from a divorce settlement — and went completely bankrupt.

"Her bankruptcy attorney later looked into the situation and advised her to go to the police," said Marshall.

Investigators quickly discovered that "Randy" was really Barbara, a 45-year-old woman living on disability checks just down the road from Linda's home.

Barbara, who has pleaded not guilty, was awaiting trial at press time.

8 WAYS TO PUT THE SIZZLE BACK IN YOUR SEX LIFE!

By JUNE SAWYER
Weekly World News

Many couples are hit by a sudden loss of sexual desire that lasts for weeks or months — but you can beat the sexual doldrums and put the fire back in your lovemaking, says an expert.

"The American Psychiatric Association estimates that 20 percent of the population, both male and female, have little desire for sexual intercourse at any given time," said Dr. Anthony Pietropinto.

Depression and worry are the biggest causes of inhibited sexual desire, he said.

Money problems, problems at work, a death in the family, or even a new baby at home can clutter up the brain so much that the worrier just can't focus on romance.

Also, it's common for sex to become humdrum for couples that have been sleeping together for a long while — though the age of the couples matters less than the age of the relationship.

For example, middle-aged love-birds starting out on a second marriage may be more frisky than a young pair who've been together five or six years.

How do you put the tiger back in your partner's tank? Dr. Pietropinto suggests you:

1 Don't nag or complain about being deprived of sex.

2 Concentrate on the quality of your lovemaking, not the quantity.

3 Break your sexual routine: Plan an escapade away from home in a quaint motel — or create a seductive atmosphere in your own bedroom.

4 Duplicate a particularly memorable occasion that turned on your partner.

5 Make your partner feel desired — pay plenty of compliments.

6 Work to remove any distractions that are bugging your mate.

7 Try wearing sexy nightclothes to bed — or nothing at all.

8 "The more desirable you make yourself as a person and as a lover," said Dr. Pietropinto, "the more your mate is likely to once again feel that old strong desire for you."

Painting of John the Baptist has real body odor!

IT STINKS TO HIGH HEAVEN

MIRACLE painting of John the Baptist by Nicolai Bulovic was completed in 1586, but only recently began to smell.

KIEV, Russia — A painting of John the Baptist that has hung in a chapel here for more than 400 years has begun to give off real body odor, church officials say.

By ALEXANDER SWANSON
Weekly World News

Since the sacred painting in the Russian Orthodox church began to emit the distinctly human B.O. last December, thousands of the faithful have flocked to the chapel to witness the miracle. "The image of John smells just like a live, sweaty man," says Italian businessman Benito Cardoza, 41, who traveled thousands of miles to get a whiff of the amazing work of art.

Others who have been up close and personal with the life-size image by famed Russian artist Nicolai Bulovic have described the aroma as masculine and almost overpoweringly strong, "like a caveman in animal skins."

Bible experts call this highly significant. That's because the New Testament depicts John the Baptist as a near-wildman who wandered the desert wilderness for months at a time without bathing, dressed in "raiment of camel's hair" (Matthew 3:4).

"The odor that witnesses describe perfectly matches what the prophet would have smelled like in life," says noted theologian Anton Veshiky, who has investigated the extraordinary phenomenon.

The painting of John the Baptist has stood in the chapel in St. Martin's Basilica since 1586 and up until last year, it exhibited no supernatural properties.

Then on New Year's Eve, 1999, an elderly parishioner named Klara Filippovic was alone in the chapel kneeling and praying quietly when she began to detect a potent male smell. She sniffed around for several minutes before identifying the source.

"At first I thought I was imagining things, then I realized the stink really was coming from the blessed image of the saint," says Mrs. Filippovic, 73.

Since then, church officials say, more than 21,000 visitors have come to pay homage to the painting, some making pilgrimages from as far away as Texas. Every day, lines of those hoping the image will bring them good fortune wrap around the block on which the small, once-obscure church sits.

"If you get within three feet of the painting — and believe me, that's as close as you'd want to go — there's no mistaking what you are smelling," says Father Vladimir Golyadkin, rector of the church.

Experts on religious miracles call the phenomenon unique. "There are numerous documented cases of religious icons crying and even bleeding before, but this is the only instance I'm aware of a painting developing B.O.," said Bible scholar Veshiky.

The Vatican has reportedly dispatched its own team of investigators to verify the miracle.

OVER 21,000 people visit the chapel in a Russian Orthodox church in Kiev to smell the image of John the Baptist.

Worshippers travel thousands of miles to smell his B.O.

Mystery hot seat burns buns of eatery patrons!

PARIS — Dumbfounded scientists admit they can't explain why a chair at a restaurant mysteriously heats up to 180 degrees Fahrenheit each evening, making it impossible for patrons to sit on it for dinner.

20-ton prehistoric beast attacks as scientists release it from captivity

By GEORGE SANFORD/Weekly World News

BRASILIA, Brazil — Award-winning Weekly World News journalist Anwar Basarah has been eaten alive — by a bloodthirsty, 80-foot dinosaur!

Basarah, 58, was killed by the 20-ton Iguanadon — a lumbering reptile previously believed to have been extinct for 75 million years — as the reporter covered scientists' efforts to study the prehistoric beast in a remote part of the Amazon jungle.

"The thing moved like lightning. It scooped Anwar up in its jaws and swallowed him in just two gulps," said freelance photojournalist Raul Sanchez, who caught the fatal attack on film.

Colleagues of the veteran newsman were shaken to hear of the tragedy.

"Anwar was one of the best," NEWS Editor Susan Jimison said. "He was not only a brilliant reporter, he was a friend. He will be greatly missed."

The massive, armor-skinned Iguanadon — an ancestor of the modern-day iguana — was discovered last summer by a stunned team of British and American researchers who were conducting a routine survey of reptiles and amphibians in the deep, nearly impenetrable jungle north of Brasilia. When they found gigantic footprints on a muddy riverbank, they knew at once they had stumbled onto the scientific discovery of all time.

Dr. Jonathan Gault.

"We'd all seen similar footprints in fossil form, but these were obviously fresh," recalls British reptile expert Dr. Jonathan Gault, leader of the research team. "It was obvious to us that these prints were made by a real, live dinosaur — even though, of course, they were all supposed to have died out long before the dawn of man.

"As confused as we were, we were quite excited — because we knew that if a few of them had survived all these years, they were probably hiding out in a place just like this."

The scientists tracked the creature down and when they first encountered it, Australian zoologist Dr. Richard Mears was bitten and killed by the ferocious animal.

A few days later, the researchers were able to subdue and capture the dinosaur using powerful tranquilizers and a live goat as bait. The snarling beast was caged in a large wooden shelter.

"Unfortunately, we discovered that an animal so uniquely adapted to its environment could not survive removal from the jungle," said Dr. Gault, of London. "Indeed, it often refused to eat the butchered meat we provided and it failed to thrive. Within a few months, the Iguanadon had become dangerously underweight."

This spring, the researchers reluctantly announced plans to return the creature to the wild. Reporter Basarah and Brazilian photographer Sanchez drove by Jeep to the camp, to cover the remarkable event. On the morning of April 28, the researchers cautiously opened the cage that had been built in a jungle clearing to house the creature, and it ambled out.

"I started to snap pictures as soon as the dinosaur emerged," Sanchez said. "Then Anwar said he wanted to get a picture of himself standing next to the dinosaur. The scientists tried to wave him away, but he ran over and got into position.

"The animal just reached down and grabbed his whole head and half his chest in its mouth."

Even though the dinosaur has now claimed two lives and is roaming the jungle free, Dr. Gault insists the risky research will continue.

"It will, of course, be challenging to try to study the Iguanadon in its natural habitat," he said. "But we hope to learn even more about about dinosaur behavior by observing it in the wild."

A funeral for Mr. Basarah was attended by more than 700 mourners. The journalist will

HE KICKS IRS BUTT!

Whiz kid does taxes for dad's company — & saves $200,000 a year!

WEEKLY WORLD NEWS PHOTOS BY RON ALEXANDER

YOUNG Mikey Calibar gives his dad David and the company accounting staff a few tips on taxes for next year's tax return.

By RANDY JEFFRIES / Weekly World News

NEW YORK CITY — Eight-year-old math whiz Mikey Calibar saved his dad's business more than $200,000 this past year alone — by doing the company's taxes!

Chairman and CEO David Calibar says he was able to give employees of his multimillion-dollar investment counseling firm $80,000 in bonuses and bank an additional $120,000 in savings.

"My son has been filing our corporate tax returns since he was 6, and each year he saves us more money," Calibar says. "He finds creative but perfectly legal exemptions that our trained certified public accountants never came up with."

David got the idea of using Mikey for the job one April night in 1997 when the company accountant came to the Calibar home for a late-night tax session. The two of them were poring over the complex company tax return when little Mikey, then only 5, walked over.

Brainy 3rd-grader finds deductions even CPAs overlook!

After taking a quick glance at the computer screen, the boy said, "That tax-exempt bond is listed in the wrong column."

The stunned accountant quickly admitted Mikey was correct and made the change.

"I couldn't believe it," David said.

"I'd always known Michael was bright in math, and I'd seen him reading through my books on corporate taxation — but I never realized he was actually absorbing the stuff.

"Just for fun, after that return had been filed and things had calmed down, I gave him copies of the receipts, the 1099s and other forms, just so see how he would have handled them.

"To my astonishment, he found expenses and investments that could have been deducted and weren't — things that never occurred to our CPA.

"The next year, the CPA was out and Mikey was in."

Widower David, 36, says that in most ways, Mikey is a normal, red-blooded boy who loves fishing, baseball and Nintendo.

But when it comes to the IRS, he doesn't think or talk like a kid at all. He sounds like a very wise adult.

"It's really easy for me," he says. "I don't know why, but the whole concept of income and has the right to a certain amount of money. But if a person or business can prove that they're using their money to generate even more commerce, they have the right to hold back that money.

"It's more complicated than that but once you get that concept — really get it — in your head, the return practically writes itself.

"Lots of people hate doing tax forms but I love it. It makes me feel great to see dad so happy."

And David says he can't imagine what his business would do without Mikey come tax time.

"I count him," he says.

"Next year, I may even decide to pay him more than the $4 allowance he gets each week."

PROUD dad David Calibar is all smiles while posing with his 8-year-old genius son Mikey.

WHIZ KID Mikey Calibar points out a few tax-saving tips to his dad David and the company accounting staff.

How you can live a century or more

Want to live past the age of 100? Who doesn't?

Here are some tips, culled from 25 men and women between the ages of 101 and 120, on how you can prolong your life:

- Never go to bed angry at anyone, especially yourself or your mate.
- Never get on an airplane.
- Don't drive at night.
- Try to do something nice for someone every day.
- Don't worry about money.
- Take time to relax.
- Never second-guess yourself. When you make a decision, act on it — and forget it.
- Don't let people get under your skin.

Whistling can save you from killer space aliens!

If you're ever captured by space aliens and feel afraid, just whistle a happy tune. There's never been a reported case of extraterrestrial visitors incinerating a person who's whistling, experts say.

Researchers believe that whistling resembles the aliens' native language, so the space aliens view creatures that make the sounds as a form of intelligent life.

Q A friend of mine claims that John Travolta is going bald. I say that's crazy.
He's famous for that fabulous head of black hair and you can see in all his recent movies that he still has it.
Who's right?
— Jill D., Bridgeport, Conn.

THE BALD TRUTH: John Travolta.

A I'm afraid that the lush pompadour that graced the screen in films like Saturday Night Fever is vanishing fast.

The 46-year-old star admitted recently that he uses an old trick to create the illusion that he still has all his hair. "I do have someone color in my bald spots," John said in an interview.

Q I've been closely following the fairy-tale Hollywood romance of superstar Michael Douglas and gorgeous Welsh actress Catherine Zeta-Jones and was thrilled when they announced they're expecting a baby and plan to marry. Are they planning a big family?
— Ann J., Mobile, Ala.

I WANT TO HAVE LOTS OF BABIES! Catherine Zeta-Jones.

A Absolutely — and in fact, they're looking forward to having at least one matching pair of little ones! Catherine says she wants to have "loads" of babies, and because Michael is 25 years older than she is, she is getting busy making them as soon as possible.

"I'd love to have twins. They run in family and they're due in my generation," the raven-haired Zorro star told In Style magazine

Q I am a big fan of Donny Osmond and I love the TV talk show he does with his sister Marie. But my stupid brother says that Donny is a phony and his wholesome image is just an act. That's not true, is it?
— Kathy T., Hermosa Beach, Calif.

A Donny isn't quite as squeaky clean as he appears. In fact, the toothsome singer admits that he once broke the ultimate taboo — stealing his own brother's girlfriend!

"Debbie was the prettiest girl at Provo High and a cheerleader and I stole her away from my brother," he confessed recently.

"We were double-dating and I stole her. I am a snake."

The good news: He and Debbie ended up getting married and have been together for 21 years.

— Jim F., Peachtree City, Ga.

A Not at all. Naomi, who's just turned 30, says she's taken a good hard look at herself and decided to put her hard-partying days behind her.

"I hate bad boys, boozers and booze. I've decided not to drink," the changed woman said in an interview.

As for posing decked out in nothing but a coating of baby oil, the new-and-improved Naomi says that being naughty has nothing to do it. "Nudity doesn't

Car engine cookout!

BARBECUE THE BEST MEALS YOU'VE EVER TASTED — WHILE YOU DRIVE!

By MIKE FOSTER / Weekly World News

ORLANDO, Fla. — You can get the most out of your gas dollars and make delicious meals for the whole family by wrapping your food in magnetic foil — and cooking it on your car engine while you drive!

Whip up scrumptious steaks, chops, chicken & veggies — and cook 'em under the hood!

Thousands of thrifty Americans are already using the trick to save time and money, and they swear by what they call "motor meals."

"I've baked potatoes, cooked Cornish hens, grilled vegetables — even barbecued hot dogs with my Eagle Vision. The results have been fantastic," said homemaker and mom Carol Chaslin. "My husband Leo loves the way the food turns out and so does my picky 9-year-old son Justin."

Long-distance truckers have been using the ingenious technique for years. But it is only in recent months, as gas prices have soared, that average Americans have gotten hooked on motor meals. As many as 45,000 people nationwide have tried it, a car company survey shows.

It was inevitable that ordinary folks would catch onto the professional drivers' secret, experts say.

"The internal combustion engine is the most sophisticated heat conductor ever invented and a car hood is designed to contain that heat," said an auto engineer. "In a sense, it's the perfect oven."

People who are into motor meals say that the engine fumes give the food a unique flavor.

"It's like that special kick you get from smoking a turkey or ham," said Mrs. Chaslin, who's putting together a recipe book entitled 101 Motor Meals.

The 31-year-old mom says she first tried cooking on her car engine after hearing the practice discussed on a radio show devoted to car repair. "I started simple, just putting in a potato while I was out shopping," she recalled. "It came out so perfectly, I started experimenting with other things."

When she began bringing her tasty car-cooked dishes to get-togethers, friends were wowed.

"They couldn't believe it when I told them how I cooked the food and they told me I ought to put the recipes together in a book," she said.

Foods cooked on a car engine should be carefully wrapped in magnetic foil and placed in such a way that they adhere tightly to the engine and don't interfere with the moving parts. You should consult your auto mechanic about the ideal placement, because every make of car is different, the housewife-turned-author says. To bake a potato usually takes about an hour of driving. A steak takes about 45 minutes, depending on how you want it done.

"I love this because it saves me time — I can cook while I'm picking up the kids from school," said Mrs. Chaslin. "My husband loves it because we're getting double use out of our gas money."

Gutwrenching news for gals: Stress can cause potbellies!

Relax, ladies, and slim down — because stress causes women to develop potbellies!

Researchers reached that surprising conclusion after taking the body measurements of 1,462 women and then examining the amount of tension in their lives.

"We found that a chronic feeling of stress was highly correlated with a so-called 'paunch' " said Dr. Per Bjorntorp.

Stress triggers release of an increased amount of the hormone cortisol, which causes a build up of fat in the abdominal area, he explained. It also boosts blood pressure, raises blood sugar and increases the risk of getting cardiovascular disease and ulcers.

"Females typically accumulate fat on their hips and buttocks while males accumulate fat on their bellies," said Dr. William Castelli.

"So the findings by Dr. Bjorntorp that stress can cause fat accumulation on women's bellies like men is both surprising and interesting."

Here are some tips that can help women beat stress and prevent potbellies, according to Dr. Isidore Ziferstein.

- When pressure builds, take a mini-break. Go for a short walk, or just duck into the bathroom for a few minutes to wash your face.
- Hang pictures of tranquil scenes around your home and work area. Look at them and imagine yourself in the restful setting.
- Don't keep your tension pent up inside you. Confide your stressful feelings to your spouse, a trusted friend or co-worker.
- Clip jokes or cartoons from newspapers and magazines then tape them to your refrigerator, kitchen wall or around your work area.
- While you're on the phone, stand up and walk back and forth.

Added Dr. Ziferstein: "Even mild exercise helps to combat stress."

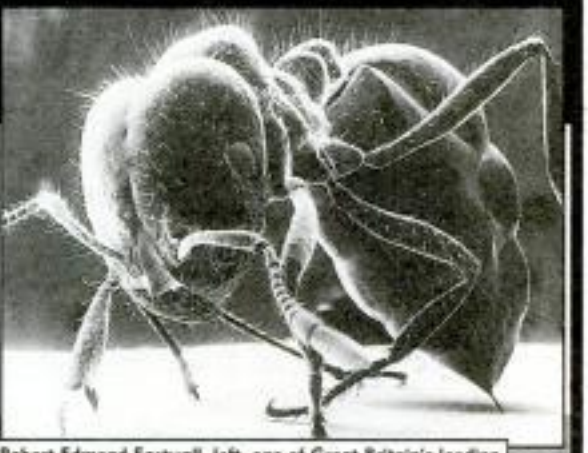
MYSTERIOUS CROP CIRCLES WERE MADE BY SUPER-SMART ANTS



By MIKE FOSTER
Weekly World News

They're trying to talk to us in their own bizarre language, says expert!

MANCHESTER, England — The mystery of crop circles may finally have been solved! A top scientist has concluded that the strange circular patterns that appear in rural fields worldwide are made by super-intelligent ants!

Dr. Robert Edmond Eastwall, one of Great Britain's leading entomologists, theorizes that the creatures form the elaborate markings in an effort to communicate with humans.

"We have just begun to interpret these messages," says Dr. Eastwall. "But from the translations we have made, it is evident that these insects see themselves as the rulers of Earth."

Dr. Eastwall's blockbuster announcement, made at an April 17 press conference, has rocked the scientific community, which has been struggling to understand crop circles for decades.

The weird circles have been found throughout the American Midwest, England and Australia. Some researchers are convinced that the circular patterns are the landing marks of flying saucers.

Other experts have argued that the circles are the handiwork of pranksters laboring in the dead of night. But incredibly, some crop circles have appeared overnight in fields while the area was being carefully monitored by observers — who saw no sign of the creators.

Dr. Robert Edmond Eastwall, left, one of Great Britain's leading entomologists, theorizes that the creatures form the elaborate markings in an effort to communicate with humans.

"When I learned of this, it became obvious that the circles were created by entities too small to be seen," said Dr. Eastwall. "I thought immediately of insects."

By examining soil-disruption patterns beneath crop circles, Dr. Eastwall has confirmed his theory.

"There were distinct traces of ant activity," he said.

"However, as I observed the complexity of the symbols, it was clear to me that these were no ordinary ants, but a highly intelligent mutation."

The bug expert points out that the use of body movements to communicate is common among insects, particularly bees and ants.

"But it's a leap forward to leave a record of those movements in soil as a form of writing," he said.

Aided by his knowledge of insect languages, Dr. Eastwall and a team of top British linguists have been painstakingly translating crop circles for nearly a year.

He has concluded that the as-yet-undiscovered species of ant dwells far beneath the surface and sends "scientific expeditions" to leave the messages by plowing dirt and munching away crops.

One of the handful of crop-circle messages successfully translated by Dr. Eastwall says, "Greetings. We are the Earth masters.

"We are peaceful. Do not fear us. We will be coming soon."

He is currently excavating a crop

MY AMERICA By ED ANGER

RICH FOLKS DESERVE BETTER MEDICAL CARE — THEY EARNED IT!

I'm madder than Marcus Welby with a busted stethoscope over all the fuss about medical care in America.

I'm so mad, in fact, that I'm going to go out on a limb and be the first newspaper columnist in the country to tell it like it really is:

Normal, God-fearing, hardworking, American-born citizens have plenty of medical care. In plain English, 99.9 percent of Americans go to their own doctor when they get sick and pay him money to make them well.

If they end up in the hospital, health insurance picks up the bill. It's that simple, folks, no matter what kind of hogwash Hillary and Bill try to feed you.

The average working American can feel free to get any disease he or she wants and not feel any financial pinch. People who work get company medical insurance. People who don't work, don't.

People who work and save money can pay the family doctor for treatment. People who don't work can't pay a family doctor so a family doctor won't treat them because doctors don't work for free.

I've tried to make this as clear as a bell so even the stupid liberals can understand it. But if bleeding hearts are going to keep throwing hissy fits over this medical care thing, I've got an idea that might do the trick.

First, we ought to make doctors post their medical school grades on the wall, right beside those fancy diplomas. That way, we could start a system where medical rates would vary according to the doc's grade average.

For example, a doctor who maintained an A average in medical school would get $80 for an office visit. A sawbones with a D average would only get $20 a visit.

Every doctor's office or clinic would have the average grade of its doctor or doctors painted in big block letters on a sign outside.

If you were poor or broke, you could most likely get a C, D or F doctor to see you.

If you were better off, you could go to an A or B doctor for better care at a higher cost.

If you needed an operation and didn't have insurance, you'd wind up under a D doctor's knife. Risky, but better than nothing.

Let's face it, my rule of thumb has always been that the more expensive a doctor is, the better he is. I say let's give the Ed Anger "Medical Grade Point Average Plan" a chance to work before we start taking 60 percent of every working American's hard-earned paycheck to put illegal aliens and welfare bums in big bucks hospitals every time they stub their toes.

Ed Anger

. . . wait'll Congress gets a load of this health plan

HARDWORKING Americans should get the grade "A" doctors, as shown at left, and people with no money should be assigned to the grade "D" doctors, right.

ED ANGER'S HEALTH PLAN POLL

☐ YES. I agree with Ed Anger that doctors should be forced to display their medical school grade average and charge accordingly so every American can get the health care he deserves.

☐ NO. I think we should adopt the liberals' health care ideas so hardworking Americans can pay through the nose to treat illegal aliens and lazy welfare bums.

Plotting revenge is GOOD for you!

Feel like getting revenge? Then daydream about it, says an expert Getting back at your enemies — even in fantasy gives you a boost.

"It's a healthy release that helps you get through tense moments — without doing anything that could get you in trouble," explains New York City psychologist Judith Meyerowitz.

"Say you're kept awake at night by kids in cars playing their radio loudly as they pass your house.

"You could fantasize revenge by having the chance to lock them in a room for 24 hours with nothing to do — except listen to Mozart records!

"Or perhaps a car passes you on the highway going at high speed.

"You could imagine that you could make their tire go flat farther down the road, that they have no jack, their spare tire is deflated — all in a bad neighborhood!"

Dr. Meyerowitz pointed out that fantasies like these are a lot better than holding in your anger.

"Not getting revenge — and not thinking about it — can lead to high blood pressure, migraine headaches, chronic indigestion, heartburn, ulcers, colitis and more.

"Not doing anything about something that upsets you often leads to a loss of self-esteem because you feel powerless.

"But fantasizing about revenge restores that sense of power. You feel as if you're in control of the situation."

Pregnant woman gets stock tips from her unborn baby!

By TANYA BRODER / Weekly World News

NEW YORK CITY — Super-successful stockbroker Linda McDemeter has finally revealed the secret of her investment strategy: She listens to her unborn baby — and follows his advice when she plays the stock market!

She's made $1 million — in just four months!

The 28-year-old single mom says she's made more than $1 million in the four months since she first listened to her baby's "tips" with a stethoscope. She's doing so well with her investments, she says, that she'll be able to stay home with her baby full-time when he's born in early May.

"I was really having a bad time, making all the wrong investment decisions and losing money right and left," the mom-to-be recalled.

"I was scared, because I had my baby coming and I had just lost my job at a Wall Street firm.

"One day I realized that when I pored over the stock quotations, my unborn child was much more active. I thought maybe I was tense and this was disturbing the baby. I was concerned about his health."

Linda bought a stethoscope to listen to her baby's heartbeat — and found the secret to financial success!

She discovered that the heart rate of her unborn child increased dramatically when she read details about certain stocks in the newspaper.

"The baby would start kicking like crazy and his heart would beat twice as fast

Linda said. "One day I decided to invest in a stock he got excited about, just for the heck of it.

"The next day the stock's price soared.

"I doubled my money on it.

she turned an incredible profit. Soon she was consulting her child on a regular basis — and making money hand over fist. "I was doing so well that word got out and now I have more clients than I need," she says.

"I don't know how my little one does this or whether he can keep it up after he's born, but thanks to him I now have enough investment income to support us very comfortably for life." Experts contacted by Weekly World News could offer no explanation for the baby's fantastic track record.

But one doctor suggested that the child's pulse might race because of signals the woman is unconsciously sending to her unborn baby while she's reading the daily stock market figures.

"Bad Luck Stuck With Me... Until I Discovered The Secret Of The Magnetic North Stone Jewelry."

M. Meric, Marseillan

Discover FOR FREE

... the astonishing secret that let Mr. Meric, as well as 1,314,586† other people over the past 69 years, lead happy lives'. Lives full of luck, success, and fulfillment.

Do you think you have problems?

I remember a time when nothing was working out for me or for my family. I had family problems. Neither I nor my wife could find a job. My children were having difficulties at school. And as for my luck—well, I'd never won a cent in the lottery or any other game. I remember how hard it was making it through the end of each month. Believe me, I know what it's like having bad luck cling to you.

Yet today, everything is going well. I've found a good job as a dockmaster. My two children are doing well in their studies. Plus, I've made some big wins at various games of chance. I also miraculously escaped from a near-fatal accident.

What is the origin me first ask you another question. Do you think that I'm the kind of guy who buys amulets or good-luck charms?

Let me assure you: I am not. In fact, I've always been very skeptical of charms and easy ways of attracting good luck or winnings at the lottery or other games of chance.

And I stayed that way until I heard about the legendary Magnetic North Stone.

I made an investigation...

...and learned that thousands of men and women since 1930 (more precisely: 1,314,586 people through today†) suddenly became lucky the moment they began wearing a piece of jewelry on which the Magnetic North Stone was mounted.

They won at the lottery and at other games. Often huge amounts. They received unexpected money. Plus, they benefitted from fortunate events involving their work, their love lives, their health, etc. Generally, their entire lives were transformed for the better.

I admit I was disturbed by these facts. I wanted to know more, to try and understand the mysterious powers of the Magnetic North Stone.

I learned that each person, from the day of birth, is influenced by the earth's magnetic influences—both day and night. In fact, the entire surface of the earth is magnetized. The earth is like a huge natural magnet, with the North Magnetic Pole as the positive end and the South Magnetic Pole as the negative charges a magnetic field of varying intensity and is constantly under the influence of the earth's magnetic fields.

I discovered that people with problems, lacking in luck, or unable to achieve hoped-for success in their lives, generally lack magnetism. Similarly, people who attract luck and money—people who can take success for granted—have lots of magnetism.

Scientist's photo of a fragment of the Magnetic North Stone. The magnetic radiation is clearly

It has now been scientifically proven that a lack of magnetism negatively affects your life. It has also been scientifically proven that the simple act of wearing a magnetic piece of jewelry enhances your magnetism and positively affects your behavior — and lets you achieve success in your life.

Magnetism. It's like electricity. It's physics. It is observable and quantifiable. Professor Kirlian was the first to photograph the magnetic radiation of the Magnetic North Stone. This intense magnetic radiation is easily visible in Kirlian's photos (see photo below).

The North Stone has been taken and directly imported from the most magnetized spot on Earth: just next to the Magnetic North Pole in Kiruna Vaara, Lapland, Sweden. The North Stone is actually a piece of the same lodestone that makes up the magnetic North Pole. Its natural magnetism is totally safe and very potent. It to us 24 hours a day.

We are now able to measure this magnetism. Furthermore, many scientists have made numerous discoveries over the past decade. These discoveries explain how magnetism can have a positive effect on us. Still, they cannot completely explain why people who wear magnetic jewelry from the North Stone benefit so suddenly from a multitude of positive changes in their lives. But one thing is certain: pieces of jewelry set with the Magnetic North Stone have been distributed since 1930. More than a million people since that time (1,314,586 individuals*) have placed their confidence in them — and were happy they did so.

Also, the trial was free*

I asked myself: "Could so many internationally renowned scientists and experts all be wrong? Could 1,314,586 people over the past 60 years be mistaken?"

So I made a decision. I mailed the Free Coupon*. I had absolutely nothing to lose because I (like you, if you want) was able to try my pendant set with the Magnetic North Stone for free. The guarantee read: "If you do not quickly benefit from exceptionally lucky events, just return your jewelry set with the Magnetic North Stone and the trial will have cost you absolutely nothing."

When I received my pendant with the Magnetic North Stone, I was first struck by its dazzling beauty. It was magnificent. Each Magnetic North Stone is cut and mounted on a setting plated in genuine pure gold by specialized craftsmen.

I keep my jewelry with the Magnetic North Stone on me. The first time I put it around my neck, I felt a strange sensation within me. I felt as if a protective presence had been established around me.

Over the next few days, problems I had been having worked themselves out. The effects of the Magnetic North Stone were immediate. I am very happy in my domestic life. I found a good job as dockmaster. My wife and two children wear the Magnetic North Stone and are just as enthusiastic about it as I am.

My wife found work. She says she owes all her success to the Magnetic North Stone. My two children are doing very well in their studies and never go to school without the Magnetic North Stone around their necks.

I gave one to my brother-in-law who was unemployed. He now has a good job and a great family life.

As for games of chance, I've had some excellent winnings.

And then I had a serious accident—and survived. I am certain that I would no longer be of this earth without the Magnetic North Stone. I felt it protected me.

I feel this protection like a physical presence. Plus, there has been other evidence of its existence since. I wouldn't part with my North Stone jewelry today for anything in the world. And I always wear it around my neck.

Why have I decided to tell my story? I would like others who have not been so lucky around money, and those who would like their luck to improve in general, to discover this effective way to quickly help themselves achieve the positive changes they want in their lives. A way that has been successfully tested over the past 60 years.

The Magnetic North Stone creates a surcharge of positive magnetic energy and a magnetic zone of protection around those who wear it. The Magnetic North Stone provides effective protection against the kinds of negative events and negative vibrations that often impact you in subtle ways—without you even knowing it. This, to my knowledge, is the only scientifically proven method of attracting luck, money, success, and a generally positive life.

M. Meric, Marseillan

Look at the pendant on which a Magnetic North Stone has been mounted in the center. It has been directly imported from the most magnetic region on Earth: Kiruna Vaara, in Sweden (next to the Magnetic North Pole). Bizarre 'secret' ingredient stuns fat-cat diner!

WOMAN FINDS HUMAN EYEBALL IN RITZY EATERY'S LOBSTER!

Francoise deBonnet

SOCIALITE reacted in shock after plucking a human eyeball out of her lobster dinner.

By JOE BERGER / Weekly World News

PARIS — Snooty socialite Francoise deBonnet was dining in one of Europe's ritziest restaurants when she poked a fork into her piping-hot lobster thermidor — and pulled out a human eyeball!

Now, fat cat Francoise is suing the elegant Le Canard Effrene eatery for a whopping $1.9 million, claiming she's lost all interest in eating since getting an eyeful of the errant eyeball.

And the shaken lady claims she can't sleep because disembodied eyeballs keep dancing through her dreams.

"I used to adore food, and dining out with my friends was my favorite pastime," said frantic Francoise, 59-year-old widow of wealthy international financier Henri deBonnet. "But now I don't enjoy eating at all, because every time I take a bite, I imagine I'm biting into an eyeball."

The miffed matron's stomach-turning tale began the night of February 14 when she met three moneybags pals for a seven-course dinner at the chic eatery on the outskirts of Paris.

"Everything was going fine and the meal was superb, as usual — right up to the time I dug into my lobster thermidor," rattled Francoise told reporters.

"I stuck my fork into the sauce and speared a chunk of meat and had the thing almost up to my mouth before I realized it was a big eyeball staring at me.

"I don't remember much after that, but they tell me I let out a shriek and fainted dead away."

Her friends called police and health inspectors to examine the eyeball still impaled on her fork. "It was definitely a human eyeball, there's no doubt about that," said dumbfounded police detective Paul Elgiere. "Now we're trying to find out where it came from and how it got into the lady's food. No one who works in the restaurant and no one who was eating there is missing an eyeball, so it's turning into a real mystery."

And shook-up chef Michel Balantine, who manages the world-renowned restaurant, their eyeballs in place, so I can't imagine where it came from," said mystified Michel. "And I can't imagine how it wound up on that poor lady's plate.

"Needless to say, we don't normally put eyeballs in our lobster thermidor."

Vodka & tonic voted America's No.1 drink

Vodka and tonic is the most requested drink across the U.S., according to the American Bartenders' Association.

The second-most-requested drink is gin and tonic, followed by rum and Coke, Bloody Mary, beer, Chablis wine and margaritas (tied for sixth place), martinis and Manhattans (another tie), shooters and Should I tell my sister her new hubby is gay?

AMERICA'S MOST OUTSPOKEN ADVICE COLUMNIST

JERRY in New Jersey.

Dear Dotti: After a whirlwind romance, my 28-year-old sister decided to marry a man she met at work. Brenda isn't the prettiest woman in the world and she's always been on the heavy side, so I was really happy for her. At least I was happy until I went to her fiance's bachelor party — and watched in horror as a naked MAN jumped out of his cake.

At first I thought it was a joke. But Bryan proceeded to paw the guy and I quickly realized that both of them were gay! I had a camera and snapped a few pictures. But I didn't have the heart to tell Brenda and now she's married to the guy. This is really bothering me, Dotti. Should I spill the beans — or not? — Jerry in New Jersey

Dear Jerry: You should have spilled the beans BEFORE your sister got married, butthead, and since you didn't, the only thing you can do is send those incriminating photos to her anonymously — and let nature take its course!

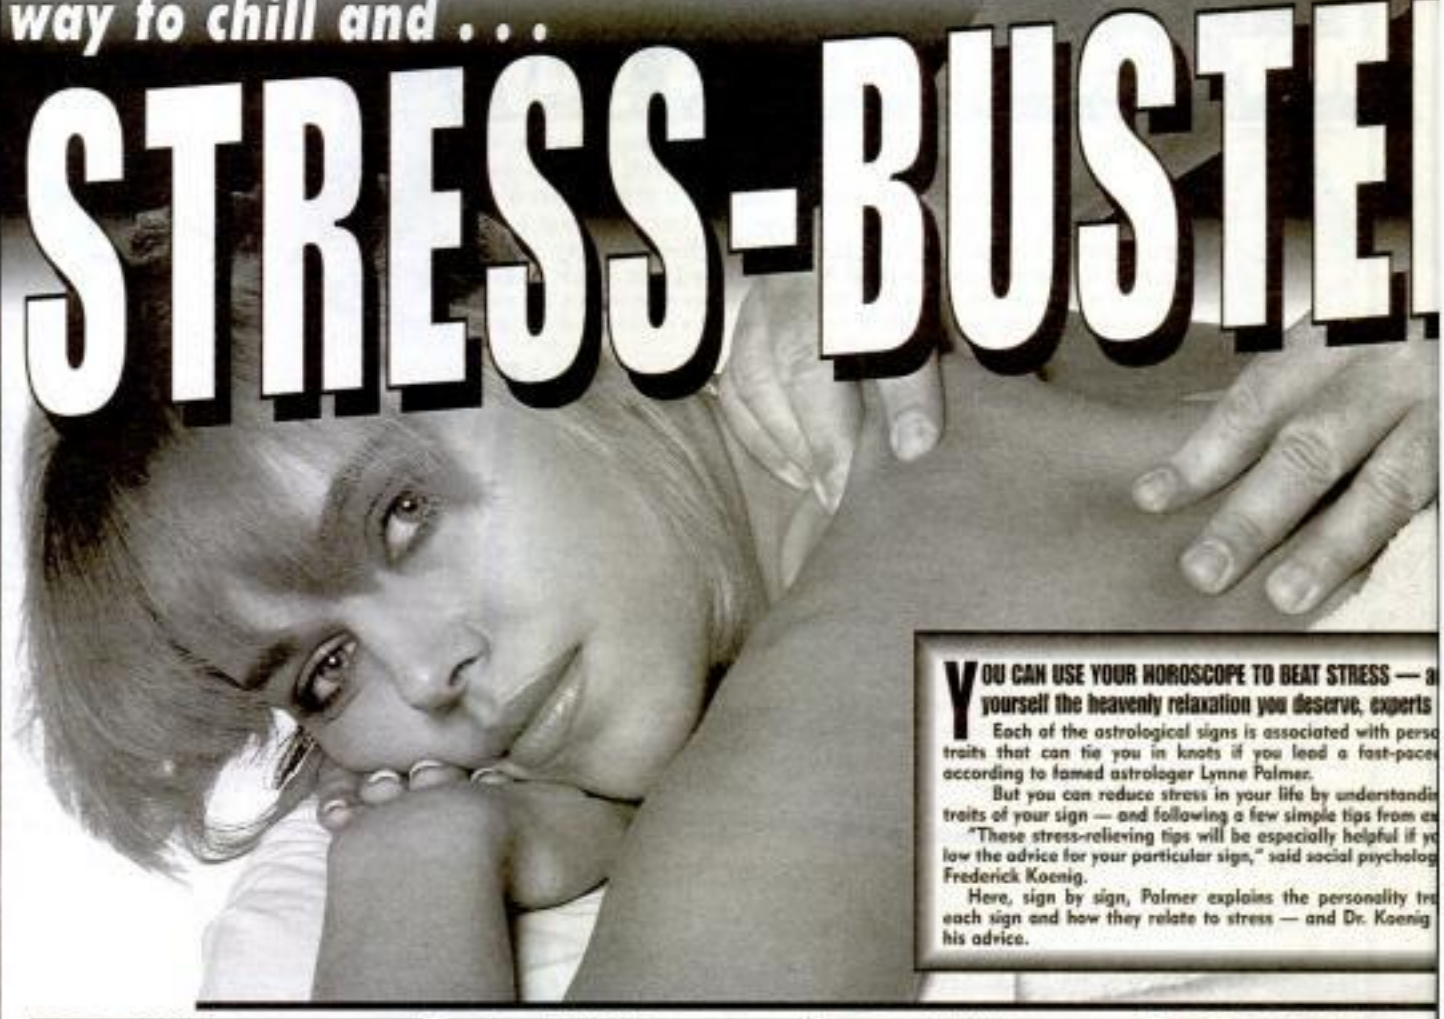
STRESS-BUSTE



YOU CAN USE YOUR HOROSCOPE TO BEAT STRESS — a
yourself the heavenly relaxation you deserve, experts

Each of the astrological signs is associated with perso traits that can tie you in knots if you lead a fast-pace according to famed astrologer Lynne Palmer.

But you can reduce stress in your life by understandi traits of your sign — and following a few simple tips from e

"These stress-relieving tips will be especially helpful if y low the advice for your particular sign," said social psycholog Frederick Koenig.

Here, sign by sign, Palmer explains the personality tr each sign and how they relate to stress — and Dr. Koenig his advice.

ARIES (MARCH 21 – APRIL 19)

"You're volatile and impatient and tend to lose your temper easily," said Palmer, author of a well-known series of books on astrology, including the yearly Astrological Almanac. "You rush through life eager to conquer the world, so you want everything done quickly — and if it isn't, you get angry."

STRESS-BUSTER: Don't explode at every minor delay — instead have a backup activity ready that you can shift your attention to when those delays arise.

"For instance, if you have an appointment scheduled and it's postponed or canceled, don't blow your top — take advantage of the free time to make out a grocery list, pay your bills or get something else done," said Dr. Koenig.

"You'll feel productive instead of frustrated —

TAURUS (APRIL 20 – MAY 20)

"Even-tempered, quiet and patient, you do everything slowly and methodically. You hold in your emotions and let tension build up until you are ready to explode."

STRESS-BUSTER: Act immediately when something irks you instead of keeping your feelings pent-up.

If someone at work has a habit that annoys you, for example, don't let your annoyance build until you finally explode in anger and say something you'll regret later.

Tell the person about your feelings BEFORE you get angry.

And if you do feel you're ready to explode, try a physical activity — that can

GEMINI (MAY 21 – JUNE 20)

"You're often tense and anxious and you are easily frazzled. You let little things bother you until you feel you're losing control — and you become a jittery bundle of nerves."

STRESS-BUSTER: You need to plan ahead and put some order in your life.

Budget your time in advance. Plan your next day before you go to bed. That will reduce stress and help you relax because you'll have a sense of being in control.

Also, don't let minor problems get you all wound up. When you begin to feel frazzled, ask yourself, "Is this problem really worth getting upset

CANCER (JUNE 21

"Your strong ego makes you very demanding. And when other people don't do things the way you want, you often become really stressed — and lash out angrily."

STRESS-BUSTER: If a person isn't doing something exactly the way you'd do it, walk away before you provoke a confrontation.

Then force yourself to think back to a time when YOU didn't do something by the book or the way someone else expected you to. In a moment or two, you'll be smiling as you recall the satisfaction you got when you succeeded — and your stressful feelings will begin to vanish.

Also, if you feel like you're ready to explode, take a "cooling off" period. Got for a walk, read a newspaper — anything to take you away from the stressful situation.

VIRGO (AUG. 23 – SEPT. 22)

"Your hardworking, industrious nature will sometimes make it hard for you to relax. You want everything to be perfect — and get upset when it isn't. And you often fly off the handle at minor interruptions."

STRESS-BUSTER: Set priorities. Decide which tasks are truly important — and apply your talents and energy to getting them done.

At the same time, take a more laid-back approach to the things that aren't so important. You'll find that many problems tend to solve themselves or are solved by others.

Also, try to view interruptions not as intrusions on your busy schedule, but as opportunities to take a welcome break from the task at hand.

LIBRA (SEPT. 23 – OCT. 22)

"You tend to be indecisive and see two sides to every story. You want fair play for everyone and get angry and stressed when you see an injustice being done."

solve. You'll feel you're making a contribution, and won't get frustrated by things you can't change.

"Also, take comfort in the knowledge that things have a way of evening out in the end," Dr. Koenig added. "In the long run, virtue does get rewarded."

SCORPIO (OCT. 23-NOV. 21)

"Because you like power and control, you can become very angry and uptight when other people don't do what you want — when you want it."

STRESS-BUSTER: Try to remember that you're not the only person in the world — other people have feelings too. And you'll find that they'll be more willing to cater to you if you're nicer and less demanding.

Be patient. Allow for other people's shortcomings. You'll get what you want in the end — without suffering stress along the way.

SAGITTARIUS (NOV. 22 – DEC. 21)

"Your devil-may-care attitude often prompts you to leap before you look, and you get into hot water by being too honest, too outspoken. Sometimes you blurt things out that upset other people — and that can lead to stress-producing arguments."

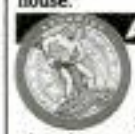
STRESS-BUSTER: Carefully weigh your words before you speak. It's easy to be misunderstood when you're too blunt and outspoken.

And listen closely to what you're saying. If you find that something you've said has unintentionally upset another person, you can restate your comments and try to remedy any damage done. You'll head off arguments — and stress.

CAPRICORN (DEC. 22 – JAN. 19)

"You're ambitious, determined and able to concentrate intensely on what you're doing. But you have a tendency to become depressed when you don't achieve what you set out to accomplish."

help you relax while you're pursuing your goals," said Dr. Koenig. "For example, a businessman might take up golf. It's relaxing, but he can still do business with his golfing partners. And a housewife can follow the daytime soap operas while she's working around the house."



AQUARIUS (JAN. 20 – FEB. 18)

"Erratic, unpredictable and independent, you like to do things on the spur of the moment — and your lack of planning and impulsiveness can lead to stress-producing problems."

STRESS-BUSTER: Seek the advice of others before you make major decisions. Their opinions might prevent an impulsive action that could lead to problems down the road — and to increased stress.

Also, try to strike a balance between your hunger for independence and the need to cooperate with other people. Trying to do everything yourself can lead to frustration.

PISCES (FEB. 19 – MARCH 20)

"You're very sensitive to other people's feelings and are sometimes too eager to please. And your own feelings are easily bruised. You tend to dwell on little hurts, letting them fester and make you glum and edgy."

STRESS-BUSTER: Don't try to please everybody. It's not selfish to occasionally put your own needs and desires ahead of other people's.

"And don't take things personally," said Dr. Koenig. "Suppose your boss blows up at you. It might not be your fault — your boss may be having a bad day and you just happened by.

"And if the supermarket clerk is nasty to you, remember that he may be nasty to everyone. It could be his problem — not yours."

Dr. Koenig added: "If you follow the tips for

WEEKLY WORLD NEWS

How to get off your butt — and get things done!

It's easy to get into the habit of putting things off, but you can beat procrastination by following these six simple tips, say experts.

☞Tell yourself off. Get yourself moving by telling yourself, "Your dawdling is silly and just plain childish."

☞Make time to get started. Don't postpone starting until you think you'll have enough time to finish the entire project. Setting aside even five minutes to get yourself going will inspire you to complete your task.

☞Picture the payoff. Get yourself fired up by focusing on how great you're going to feel once your project is completed.

☞Get help to overcome problems. If you need help, ask for it. Successful people know how to make use of the talents of others.

☞Publicize your intentions. Tell your spouse, friends and co-workers what you intend to do and you'll be more apt to follow through and save face.

☞Postpone a simple, everyday pleasure. For example, don't relax with that second cup of coffee, read the paper, do the crossword puzzle or watch TV until after you have completed your task.

ROBODOCS!

If you think that one day in the future, scientists will create robots to fill prescriptions and perform surgery, you're wrong — these robots already exist today!

An android called RxBOT can navigate the shelves of large pharmacies and scan bar codes on medicine bottles with its robotic arm. The amazing robot then picks up the appropriate drugs and carries them to the counter for the patients.

Another awesome device known as AESOP (Automated Endoscopic System for Optimal Positioning) uses a complex procedure to position laparoscopes — instruments that are inserted into the abdomen to scan for irregularities. And it does it just as well as trained medical personnel.

There's even a brainy android called Robodoc that actually drills an accurate hole in the thigh bone during hip replacement surgery.

Torture chamber is hot new night spot!

MADRID, Spain — An enterprising businessman has bought a 15th-century torture chamber — and turned it into one of the top nightclubs in the world!

Club Pain is a favorite with movie stars and models. The owner, Manuel de Lloma, 46, has

Why do UFOs fly over my house every night?

WILL in Oregon.

Dear Serena: You probably won't believe this, but UFOs fly over my house every night. I'm not talking about some little blinking lights in the sky.

I'm talking about saucer-shaped starships that are 50 to 75 feet in diameter and fly at treetop level. Please tell me what's going on, Serena. And please let me know if I'm in danger. — Will in Oregon

Dear Will: Space aliens have set up a temporary base less than a mile from your home. They plan to leave next month. Meanwhile, you're not in danger. These gentle beings are incapable of causing humans harm. They're just curious.

Dear Serena: My Dad still has a mouth full of mercury fillings from the 1950s and 1960s. I read they can cause sicknesses and mental and emotional instability. That might be what's been wrong with Dad all these years. He hasn't been right since I was a kid — and the older he gets, the worse he gets. Wild mood swings. A volatile temper. Forgetfulness. You name it. I may be grasping at straws, but I have to ask: Is the mercury in Dad's mouth making him crazy? — Chris in Virginia

CHRIS in Virginia.

Dear Chris: It's not the mercury causing your Dad's problems — it's the vodka. I know this comes as a shock — but your Dad has been an alcoholic since he was in his 20s. On a positive note, I can feel that when the two of you have a heart-to-heart conversation, he will, for the first time in his life, admit that he has a problem and get the help he so desperately needs. In keeping with that, I have extended my Spell of Family Harmony and Strength to help you both. God bless you.

Dear Serena: Can you tell me where my cat is? He disappeared seven weeks ago and I'm worried sick. It's not like him to be gone for more than a few days. Please advise. — Concerned in Arizona

Dear Concerned: A woman who lives nine blocks away from you has been taking very good care of your cat but he's going to return to you anyway. Expect to find him on your doorstep between 8 and 9 a.m. next Thursday.

Dear Serena: Every night I dream that my husband dies. After his funeral, I move back home with my parents and fall in love with a childhood friend. I love my husband dearly, and this dream is scaring me to death. What does it mean? I feel so guilty when I wake up that I think I'm going to go insane. — Vanessa in Maine

VANESSA in Maine.

Dear Vanessa: The meaning of your dreams is really quite simple. You're clinging to the past because you are afraid of growing older. I peered into your future and saw that you will soon resolve this conflict. When you do, you will stop having this dream — and find the contentment that you deserve!

Dear Serena: A few weeks ago I met Elvis Presley in a diner near my house and after a whirlwind romance, he asked me to tie the knot. I love him with all my heart, Serena, but I'm not so sure marriage is the best thing for us. As you probably know, Elvis has been in hiding since he faked his death in 1977. If we become husband and wife, I'll have to live in hiding, too. I'm confused, Serena. Should I marry The King? — Undecided in Oklahoma

Dear Undecided: The man you speak of is not, I repeat, is NOT Elvis Presley. The King is dead. My crystal ball reveals this individual is a con man who plans to take you for every penny you've got. Stop seeing him now — before it's too late!

Dear Serena: I think you're the greatest psychic ever. The thing is, I've written to you five times and have never gotten an answer. My problem — money trouble — was solved when I won a $25,000 lottery jackpot using the lucky numbers on your horoscope page. My question now is, why haven't you answered my letters? — Sally in Florida

SALLY in Florida.

Dear Sally: Each week I receive 8,000 to 10,000 letters and I simply can't answer them all. I do pray and meditate over ALL of them and try my best to bring luck and good fortune to everyone.

ORIENT
2 3 4 5 6 7

WHAT is your secret message from the Orient this week? It's easy and fun to decipher. Here's the key to decoding your message:

If the number of letters in your first name is 5 or less, subtract that number from 7. If there are more than 5 letters in your first name, subtract the total from 13.

Now take the result and find your key letter in the word ORIENT above. Starting at the upper left corner of the box below, check each one of your key letters as it appears from left to right. The letters below each of your key letters spell out a coded message for you.

THIS WEEK'S SIX LUCKIEST LOTTERY NUMBERS:

Weekly World News has purchased exclusive rights to the world's most powerful computer — and we use it to pick the six luckiest lottery numbers every week!

The Swiss-built computer, called Bright Green, has the ability to calculate which lottery numbers are most likely to come up each week, based on previous performance and established tendencies. The numbers are good for the week the NEWS is on the newsstand.

The computer scans all numbers selected in lotteries across America over the past year to provide a statistical base for predicting future results. More value is given to the most recently selected numbers.

Using all available data, the computer picks the

BIGFOOT ROAMING THE WILDS — WITH A HUMAN CHILD!

By MIKE FOSTER / Weekly World News

VANCOUVER, Canada — Excited researchers are combing the wilds of British Columbia in response to recent sightings of Bigfoot accompanied by a blond-haired boy!

More than two dozen people claim to have seen the human youngster dressed in animal skins and loping along beside the towering man-beast. Investigators speculate that the mystery boy may be the missing survivor of a plane crash that occurred in the area 11 years ago, raised from childhood by Bigfoot.

"This is the most tantalizing development in Bigfoot research to take place in decades," said Dr. Rob Worrier, a zoologist involved in the hunt for the elusive forest creature.

"It suggests that Bigfoot is not some shambling monster as he is often depicted, but a gentle and intelligent being capable of nurturing behavior and compassion."

The boy, described by eyewitnesses as lean and wiry with long, matted hair, was first spotted in late March by dentist Dr. Arthur Gosten who was camping in the Rockies with his family.

The Vancouver man was awakened in the early morning by the frantic cries of his 12-year-old daughter. When he emerged from his tent, he saw her pointing into the woods.

Researchers believe boy is baby who survived '89 plane crash!

"She said that a 'wild boy' was stealing our food," Dr. Gosten recalls. "I looked where she was pointing and saw this half-naked boy slinking off into the trees with an armful of canned goods."

Shouting after the child, Dr. Gosten gave chase and caught up with him at the edge of a clearing.

"I couldn't believe my eyes. The boy was standing next to an enormous, hairy, man-like creature at least 8 feet tall," Dr. Gosten said. "The thing took some of the boy's load, then they ambled off together into the woods, both of them walking with the same hunched-over, ape-like stride."

Since that sighting, at least 33 people have reported seeing the wild boy and his hairy companion. Witnesses have included clergymen, forest rangers and even members of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police.

In many cases, the mismatched duo have been heard exchanging guttural sounds as if talking.

"This youngster has all the earmarks

A HALF-NAKED boy stole an armload of food from Dr. Gosten's campsite, then ran off with an enormous, hairy, man-like creature.

Worrier. "The fact that his gait is similar to the Bigfoot and that they can communicate is evidence that the creature is his surrogate parent."

Researchers believe that the wild-boy sightings may be connected to the 1989 crash of a private plane carrying a party of French tourists visiting the region. The crash left the pilot and four passengers dead — including young mother Madeleine Dusoire.

Madeleine's baby Marcel was missing and the remains of the 1-year-old infant were never found.

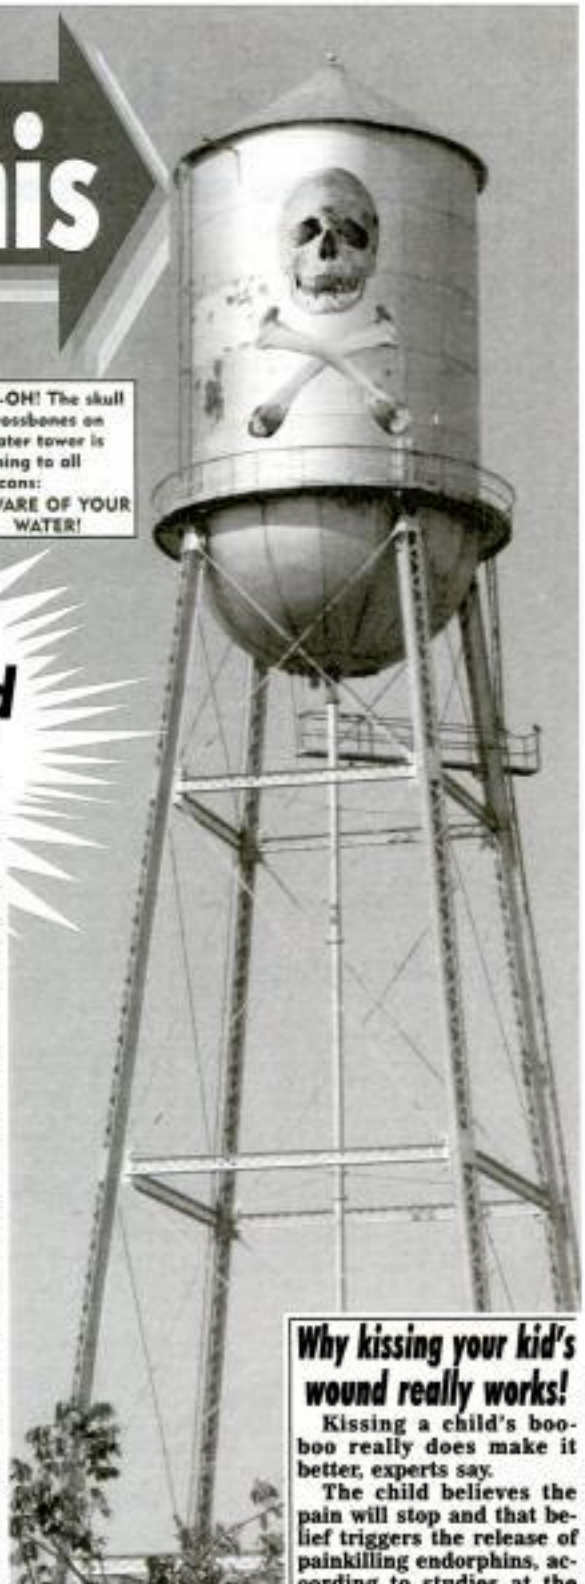
TOP SECRET REPORT

One drink of this can kill you!



H²OH-OH! The skull and crossbones on this water tower is a warning to all Americans: BEWARE OF YOUR WATER!

America's water supply is brimming with pollutants that cause cancer, infertility, birth defects — and even death!

WASHINGTON — America's water supply is contaminated with hundreds of deadly pollutants that can cause cancer, birth defects, infertility and other health problems, according to a shocking new study.

By GEORGE SANFORD
Weekly World News

But you can safeguard your family from dirty water by taking a few simple precautions recommended by environmental experts.

"This nation's water is far more polluted than the average citizen suspects," declared Ken Breedland, a Washington-based environmental activist.

"You have to protect yourself."

Last year, the federal Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) conducted the most extensive study of the nation's waters since 1972, according to Breedland.

"And the results were so frightening that the EPA report has been deep-sixed."

Ken Breedland

These, he says, are some of the study's sobering conclusions:

At least 85 percent of the nation's rivers, lakes and streams are "dangerously polluted."

The typical reservoir contains so much industrial waste — such as pesticides, PCBs and detergents — that "even a single drop has the potential of delivering multiple carcinogens."

Sex hormones used in animal husbandry end up in the water and are responsible for "at least 25 percent of human infertility."

In states such as New Mexico, where many nuclear tests have been conducted, there remains so much radioactive material in many streams and lakes that fish literarily glow in the dark.

Fortunately, protecting yourself from deadly chemicals is easy, said Breedland.

He suggests that all consumers take one or more of the following steps:

- Drink bottled water, ideally from Canada or Montana.
- Boil your tap water for at least 15 minutes before drinking.
- Never drink more than eight glasses of water a day.
- Test your water by placing a goldfish in a gallon container for one week — if it dies, the water is not safe to drink.
- If your water has any

Doctors call Godfrey's condition hexadactyly. And historically, he's in some pretty high-born company. Historians say that Henry VIII's second wife, Anne Boleyn, was also hexadactylic. Her enemies said the extra digit was a sign that she was in cahoots with the Devil and many people believed it,

Scientists breeding miniature giraffes with no necks — so people can keep them as pets!

By JACK ALEXANDER
Weekly World News

KABALA, Zaire — Generic researchers have astounded the scientific world by producing an amazing miniature baby giraffe — with no neck.

The tiny male calf measures a mere two feet tall from the top of its little head to the bottom of its little feet, as compared to the average baby giraffe which is six feet tall at birth.

"We plan to mass produce these mini-giraffes for house pets and ship them throughout the world," said Khalil Maphulmobo, a spokesman for the Zaire Ministry of Information.

"Giraffes are very smart, docile by nature, and feed mostly on acacia and mimosa leaves. They are exceptionally clean animals, that are extremely adaptable to most situations. I dare say they will be as popular a pet as dogs or cats," Maphulmobo added.

The incredible miniature giraffe is the result of an experiment in gene mutation by a team of internationally known scientists from Sweden, Israel and France. It was funded by the government of Zaire and private European investors.

"The tiny calf is an exact replica of a normal giraffe, only instead of standing 19 feet tall with seven-foot neck at adulthood, this one will barely top 3 feet," said Dr. Rolf Groner of the University of Stockholm. "This little guy will grow horns, but he'll never have a neck."

A government spokesman said other jungle animals may be reduced to miniature size and sold as house pets in the months and years to come.

"Our gene mutation program is on-going and well funded by the government and private investors," the spokesman said. "We plan to bring the jungle into the living rooms and backyards of homes everywhere. The miniature giraffe is just the beginning."

3-foot-tall animals are smart, clean and loving — just like dogs and cats

But most animal rights activists say what the scientists have done to the giraffe is "unthinkable."

"God intended the giraffe to have an elongated neck so that it could feed from the tops of trees while keeping predators away with a kick of its powerful feet," said Marianne Astby of the Kabala Society For The Betterment of Animals. "We're not going to sit by and watch one of the world's most beautiful animals deliberately deformed and removed from its environment and turned into a house pet."

But Maphulmobo is unfazed by the criticism.

"What we're doing is not inhumane. I really don't care what the animal nuts think of us," he said.

MAN MUMMIFIES WIFE'S BODY IN KITTY LITTER!

MOURNING HUSBAND: Donald Fredaunton

By LISA MERAKIS / Weekly World News

PORTLAND, Ore. — Grieving hubby Donald Fredaunton can't bear to live without his wife Alice, so he plans to keep her forever in their two-bedroom suburban home — in her coffin, mummified in kitty litter!

"She's too beautiful to bury, even in death, and I can't imagine putting her in the ground," says Fredaunton, 57. "I want her with me.

"The kitty litter is so dry and absorbent that in a month or two more, she should be completely mummified. Then I'll be able to have her right in my living room, beside the couch where we used to watch TV."

RESTING IN PEACE: Alice Fredaunton's preserved body lies in her coffin.

Fredaunton and his wife had been married for 35 years when Alice died of a stroke in February at the age of 58. The couple were childless and devoted to each other, and had never been apart in all their years as man and wife.

'She's too

So when a funeral home suggested Fredaunton have his wife's body embalmed and buried, the hardware store owner was horrified. He says he called officials and got special permission to keep his wife's body in his home.

"Alice was such a vital person, such a ball of fire — I just couldn't imagine her lying inside a dark coffin deep in the earth," he recalled.

"To me, it was a truly shocking idea.

"Yet I knew that I had to do something so she wasn't a health hazard or anything. That's when I got the kitty litter idea."

Fredaunton had the hospital deliver his wife's body to his home and constructed a simple wooden box to put her in. He laid out Alice in the box, dressed in her best outfit, and placed her in the back of the garage where she would be cool and dry.

Next, Fredaunton bought a dozen large bags of kitty litter and tenderly dumped them over Alice's body. The heap of white granules covered her corpse entirely and Fredaunton plans to leave Alice that way for several more months, until the moisture in her body is completely absorbed.

"Then I'm going to dust her off and display her real nice, right in the corner of the living room," the loving widower said.

"She would like that — being here with me instead of all alone in some graveyard."

He plans to display her in the living room!

Feeling sick? Don't wimp out in bed,

By JOEL WRIGHT
Weekly World News

Staying in bed with that cold or flu is a bad idea because lying around can do more harm than good, cautions an expert.

"There are very few illnesses where you need 100 percent bed rest, 24 hours a day," says Dr. Paul Corcoran.

"You can get blood clots in your legs after just a few days in bed. You can get a urinary tract infection from being horizontal just two or three days.

"And if you have a chest cold and you lie flat for 24 or 48 hours you're more likely to get pneumonia."

Dr. Corcoran said the complications many patients suffer when they from bed rest rather from the original injury.

"We spend weeks trying to restore function and correct the effects of the complications," said Dr. Corcoran.

In a medical paper on the hazzards of bed rest, Dr. Corcoran added, "Abundant scientific evidence in the past 50 years has demonstrated

"The severity of an illness may leave no choice except for bed rest, but the rest itself is rarely beneficial."

Despite that, said Dr. Corcoran, "The myth persists that 'bed is good for you' when ill or convalescing."

Dr. Corcoran does not advise heavy exercise when you're battling the cold or the flu.

"You want to avoid strenuous bursts of exertion if you're recovering from the flu," he said.

But it's important to prevent inactivity.

Dr. Corcoran advises that you rest in an easy chair or recliner rather than a bed and get up and move around every hour or so.

Have a stretch, get a drink of water, go to the bathroom, go to the refrigerator for juice or to the TV to change the channel, and take your meals at a table.

Said Dr. Corcoran: "Don't stay in bed unless you absolutely have to."

Skeletons found in B-24 bomber that crashed in Amazon jungle in 1944!

By JUNE SAWYER / Weekly World News

RIO DE JANEIRO — The remains of 10 Americans were recovered from the wreckage of a B-24 bomber that crashed in a remote section of the Amazon jungle in 1944.

REMAINS of 10 dead Americans were recovered from B-24 crash.

Military searchers trudged through 250 miles of dangerous, unexplored jungle, filled with poisonous snakes, savage animals, insects and dense underbrush, to reach the wrecked World War II plane in the northern Brazilian state of Amapa.

After 16 days of digging and blasting the swampy soil with high-powered water hoses, the searchers recovered bone fragments and 77 teeth.

"They dug down several meters and were starting to lose hope when they found bones, rings, necklaces and dog tags with names and ranks on them," said Ferdando Allegretti, a spokesman for the Amapa international affairs department.

One of the investigators found a wallet containing family photos. Another searcher pulled several 1944 dollar bills from the earth.

The B-24 Liberator went down in a storm on April 11, 1944, while flying from Trinidad to Belem, a port city at the mouth of the Amazon River.

"This was no easy dig," Allegretti said. "They were up against the jungle heat, malaria and man-eating jaguars.

"Two of our men got lost in the jungle running from a jaguar. They hid in a tree for two days before the animal went away."

After a memorial ceremony in Macapa, the remains were sent to Hawaii for testing and identification before being buried in Arlington National Cemetery.

NICE, France — Purse snatcher Daniel Pouchin landed in the hospital after he attacked two "ladies" on the street — and discovered to his horror that they were burly men dolled up as women!

The gussied-up guys were enjoying a cigarette outside their favorite bar when the mugger approached and tried to swipe a purse belonging to one of them. Before the mugger knew what hit him, the make-believe belles swung into action and beat him to a pulp with their fists.

Moments later, police arrived on the scene and carted dazed Daniel, 31, off to a hospital to be treated for a concussion and broken ribs.

WILL HILLARY DU BILL THIS YEAR?

Guess right and win a whopping $1,000.

Will First Lady Hillary Rodham Clinton divorce her straying husband, President Bill Clinton, before a year is out? Guess the answer to that burning question and you could win a whopping one thousand dollars!

That's right. Weekly World News is sponsoring an exciting new contest that lets average Americans weigh in on the issue that has Washington insiders all abuzz. And best of all, you don't have to purchase anything to enter.

Since the Monica Lewinsky sex scandal first broke, rumors have been sweeping the nation's capital that Mrs. Clinton is fed up with being publicly humiliated by the skirt-chasing Chief Executive and has decided to pull the plug on their marriage.

Political analysts and strategists of both parties are convinced that Hillary will dump Bill — but they disagree considerably on the timing.

Some pundits predict that the First Lady will wait until the President leaves office, then quietly file for divorce. Others insist that the much-put-upon Hillary is so unhappy that she can't hold out that long and will split from her husband within the next few months.

The guessing game is the latest pastime in our nation's capital — and now, NEWS readers can get in on the fun.

Simply fill out the entry blank on this page, telling us when you think Hillary will divorce Bill. Then send it to our offices. When Mrs. Clinton files divorce papers — or if the next Inauguration Day rolls around and the couple is still together — we'll draw the letters at random. The first correct entry drawn will receive a check for $1,000 from Weekly World News.

THE FOUNTAIN OF YOUTH CAN BE YOURS

(Special report) "The recent discovery of a new natural protein enzyme may turn into a major breakthrough in health and aging", declared a research chemist at the National Institute of Aging, a branch of the U.S. Government's National Institute of Health. "It's a most exciting finding and it certainly looks strongly as if this enzyme is going to play an important role in retarding aging and promoting a long life" he said.

The new enzyme has a double action. One, it can help people "look up" to 30 years younger by smoothing out wrinkles and firming up skin. Two, it boosts the energy supply and slows down the aging process, so you can not just live a longer but also a healthier life. And to top it off, it's perfectly safe and has no side-effects, top doctors and scientists say.

According to a New York leading neurologist and nutrition specialist, "It can make people in their 40's look like they're in their 20's, while people in their 60's may look like they're 35 or 40."

An Atlanta physician and former director of physical health services for the Georgia Regional Hospital, reports that he has tested the enzyme on dozens of patients and "it worked miracles!"

A doctor of Osteopathy, founder of the International Academy of Preventive Medicine, said: "I have used it on over 1,000 patients. Within weeks people begin to feel healthier and stronger. Within one to three months the wrinkles and lines in their faces begin to disappear and they actually start looking younger. Their skin has a better color and their bodies become suppler and more youthful. It is very definitely an anti-aging substance that slows down degenerative diseases."

Scientists believe the enzyme is an ideal weapon against senility and recommend that everyone start taking the enzyme at an earlier age to prevent the future ravages of aging, and to benefit from the enzyme's successful arthritis properties.

An organic chemist and noted authority on nutrition probably best sums up what the new substance can do for you by saying: "It's a miracle compound. You can literally turn back the hands of time with this new discovery!"

The new enzyme is being marketed under the trade name REJUVENAL and can be ordered directly from: UNILAB INTERNATIONAL, Dept. RW-31, P.O. Box 6415, Delray Beach, FL 33484. GRUMBLE IN THE JUNGLE!

MEDICS have told the Egosi tribe to eat more veggies, but miffed man-eaters say, 'Never!'

Docs order cannibals to give up eating meaty missionaries — to cut their cholesterol!

By SCOTTY PAUL / Weekly World News

MANAUS, Brazil — Doctors have ordered crestfallen cannibals in the jungle near here to stop eating missionaries, environmentalists and neighboring tribesmen — and switch to a diet rich in leafy vegetables, berries and nuts!

The medical team laid down the law after determining that most members of the man-eating Egosi tribe are suffering from dangerously high levels of cholesterol.

Seven public health doctors — accompanied by more than a dozen heavily armed bodyguards — visited the tribe after receiving reports that relatively young members were dropping dead of apparent heart attacks.

The specialists discovered that 86 percent of the adult cannibals had extremely high cholesterol levels of 400 or more and that their children were obese compared to the offspring of nearby non-cannibalistic tribes.

"It was not easy persuading them to let us draw their blood, but once we convinced them it was for their own good, they cooperated up to a point," recalled team leader Dr. Emanuel Cruz. "What we discovered was that their cholesterol levels were extremely high because of a diet that consists largely of human flesh — which is very, very high in fat content.

"These idiots are venturing into the jungle all alone, and the cannibals are having a field day, picking them off and eating them in bunches," Dr. Cruz said. "It's a lot of mumbling and grumbling, that's for sure."

The doctors discovered that the Egosi have been eating more human flesh than normal recently because of an influx of missionaries into the region, as well as a steady parade of "tree-huggers" intent on saving the Amazon rain forests.

But despite the doctors' warning that their diet is killing them, angry tribal elders say they have little desire to give up their favorite meat dishes in favor of veggies and nuts.

"Allowing all those tourists into our jungle and telling us not to eat them is like surrounding a child with his favorite toys and telling him not to play with them," one snaggletoothed tribesman complained. "It's just not right."

FACE ON MARS FOUND ON 4,000-YEAR-OLD EGYPTIAN COIN!

By JOE BERGER / Weekly World News

LUXOR, Egypt — Excited scientists have unearthed an ancient Egyptian coin with the mysterious stone face on Mars emblazoned on it — and experts say the discovery proves that extraterrestrials visited our planet 4,000 years ago!

"The face etched on this coin is identical in every respect to the now-famous face on Mars," said astonished archaeologist and historian Dr. Osmand Dumas. "But modern man, even with the powerful telescopes available today, was totally unaware the face existed until America's Viking space probe photographed it in 1976. So I can think of no way the Egyptians could have reproduced it so faithfully unless they had help — and I mean help from another world."

The Australian scientist and six colleagues uncovered the gold coin April 2 in the Valley of the Kings, less than a mile from the spot where King Tut's tomb was discovered in 1922.

Tests have determined that the remarkable artifact dates back to the reign of colorful King Amenemhet I, who ruled Egypt around 2000 B.C.

"The face on Mars is ever seen — very different from the hieroglyphics of that period," Dr. Dumas said.

"We've circulated copies of the inscription to experts around the world in an attempt to determine its origin, but they are as stumped as we are. And that makes me even more certain that the coin was brought to Earth by extraterrestrials or produced here with the aid of extraterrestrials." And if galaxy-hopping vagabonds from another planet did visit Earth 4,000 years ago, their presence could answer one of the greatest riddles of all times — how primitive Egyptians managed to build the architectural marvels known as the Great Pyramids.

"To assemble the materials and build those pyramids with such precision hardly seems possible for a people with the limited capabilities of the ancient Egyptians," Dr. Dumas said. "But for beings advanced enough to travel here from the farthest reaches of space, building a few pyramids was probably a breeze."

GRAB THE BLEACH, GALS, BECAUSE . . .

Gentlemen really DO prefer blondes

By KELLY TURNER / Weekly World News

Men really do prefer blondes — because blondes look younger, reflect a childlike innocence and radiate goodness, experts reveal.

MEN desire gals that project an innocent, yet thrilling look.

"Men like younger-looking women, and blondes look younger," said psychologist Rita Freedman.

"One in four American women are born blonde, but only 5 percent remain so after puberty.

"One way to look younger is simply to stay blonde longer. It brings out a woman's fresh, youthful appearance.

"Blondes also reflect a childlike, disarming innocence — something men find very appealing. Like Marilyn Monroe or Brigette Bardot, the blonde is a baby doll, a ripe fruit in an innocent skin."

Fairy tales men heard as children also play a part in making blondes more desirable.

"Blondes remind men of the good angel or goddess from childhood stories and mythology, and this appeals to them.

"In childhood stories, the princess always had golden locks, the angel a halo of blonde curls.

"Men see the blonde as the embodiment of the good, pure, unattainable woman."

There's a mystique and thrill in catching her. "Also blondes see themselves as more glamorous — so they project that image and others respond to them in that way."

PIZZA INVENTED BY ANCIENT GREEKS

. . . NOT Italians, say experts!

PIZZA PIES were used for discus throwing as well as eating.

By JOE BERGER / Weekly World News

ATHENS — The pizza wasn't invented in Italy, it originated in ancient Greece — and the first Olympic discus throw was actually a pizza-tossing contest!

That's the startling conclusion of noted Greek researcher and scholar Dr. Costas Diamantides, who claims his countrymen were whipping up piping-hot pizzas as early as 900 B.C.

"Three documents discovered over the past five years paint a fascinating picture of Athenian eating halls, or restaurants, where customers dined on a delicacy almost identical to the pizza now eaten around the world," Dr. Diamantides told delegates to an international historical conference here.

"The ancient Greek pizza consisted of a large, round, flat crust made of dough, very similar to the modern-day pizza. It was covered with cheese made from goats' or mares' milk and was adorned with a variety of 'toppings,' including olives, lamb, fish, squash and even honey.

"Judging from everything we know now, pizza was quite popular back then — and there is evidence that the great Athenian leader Solon nearly choked to death on a piece of olive-and-lamb pizza around 593 B.C."

Dr. Diamantides, author of the challenging new book Greece: From Homer to Constantine, said the modern-day discus throw evolved from pizza-tossing tournaments staged by the athletic young men who waited tables in ancient Athens.

"They apparently began by tossing dried, leftover pizzas back and forth like Frisbees after work and eventually began competing held around 776 B.C., pizza-tossing was such a popular pastime that it was incorporated as one of the first Olympic sports. The use of a metal-rimmed discus didn't evolve until many years later."

The delectable dish later known as pizza didn't make its way to Italy until the Romans conquered Greece in 146 B.C., Dr. Diamantides said.

"Roman soldiers became so fond of Greek pizza that they took the recipe home with them," he said. "And by 84 A.D., Roman restaurants were actually delivering pizzas in fancy chariots, 1,900 years before Domino's dished up its first anchovy."

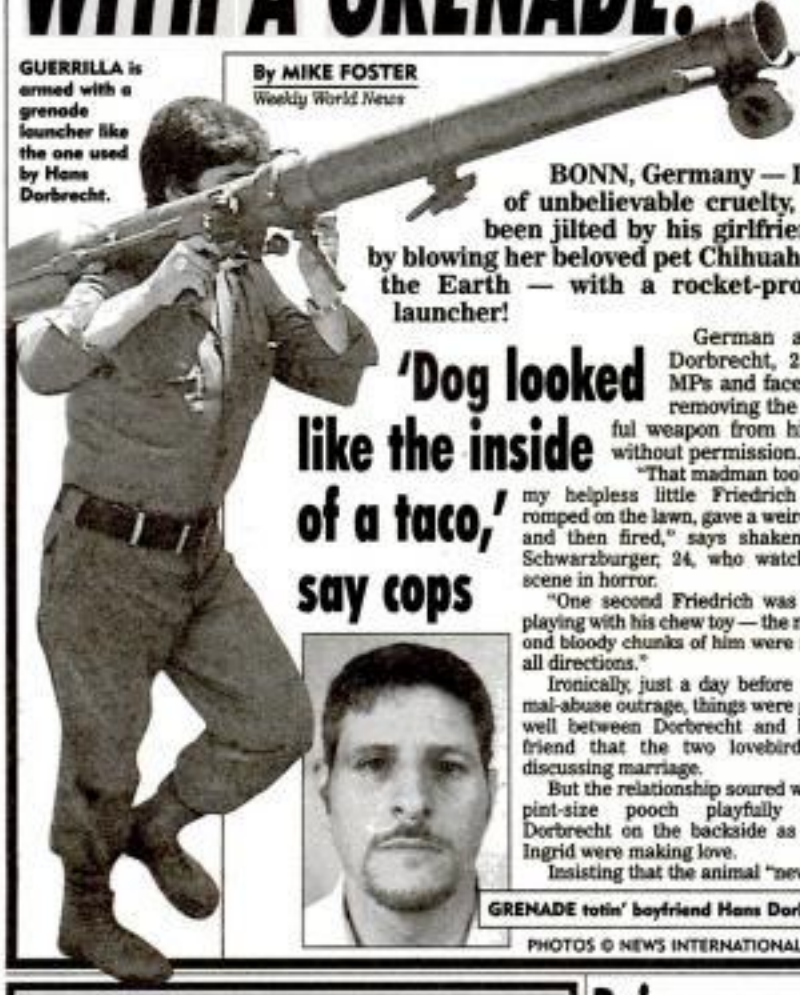
JILTED MAN BLOWS GIRLFRIEND'S CHIHUAHUA TO BITS — WITH A GRENADE!

DOG OWNER Ingrid Schwarzburger.

GUERRILLA is armed with a grenade launcher like the one used by Hans Dorbrecht.



By MIKE FOSTER
Weekly World News

BONN, Germany — In a heartless act of unbelievable cruelty, a soldier who'd been jilted by his girlfriend took revenge by blowing her beloved pet Chihuahua off the face of the Earth — with a rocket-propelled grenade launcher!

'Dog looked like the inside of a taco,' say cops

German army private Hans Dorbrecht, 26, was arrested by MPs and faces a court-martial for removing the powerful weapon from his base without permission.

"That madman took aim at my helpless little Friedrich as he romped on the lawn, gave a weird cackle and then fired," says shaken Ingrid Schwarzburger, 24, who watched the scene in horror.

"One second Friedrich was happily playing with his chew toy — the next second bloody chunks of him were flying in all directions."

Ironically, just a day before the animal-abuse outrage, things were going so well between Dorbrecht and his girlfriend that the two lovebirds were discussing marriage.

But the relationship soured when the pint-size pooch playfully nipped Dorbrecht on the backside as he and Ingrid were making love.

Insisting that the animal "never liked me," the furious soldier demanded that Ingrid get rid of her nasty pet. She adamantly refused.

"Hans said to me, 'You love that stupid dog more than me,' Ingrid recalls. "And, somewhat impulsively perhaps, I said, 'Yes, that's right, I do. Get out.' "

The angry army man didn't say another word. He just stormed out through the front door.

The following day, Dorbrecht drove back to Ingrid's home — toting the loaded rocket-propelled launcher.

"When I saw him get out of the jeep and start walking toward Friedrich with that thing on his shoulder, I knew what he was up to and started screaming, 'No! No!' " Ingrid recalls.

But the hotheaded soldier couldn't be deterred. He laughed gleefully, then let it rip — sending a grenade spiraling at the doomed dog and blasting it to kingdom come.

Military police, who arrested Dorbrecht, say the chihuahua looked like the inside of a taco.

Dorbrecht is charged with misuse of government property and faces up to five years in prison.

TAURUS
Apr. 20 — May 20

The spotlight is on helping this week. Find ways to assist a family member in trouble and spend time with an elderly friend who needs companionship.

Don't mix business and pleasure at this point. It could result in a serious misunderstanding — and a blow to your bank account.

Try something daring on Friday. The stars are on your side.

GEMINI
May 21 — June 20

This is an auspicious time for the restless Gemini to break into new fields, so enroll in vocational or college courses.

Communications skills are at an all-time high, so use them to win something you have always wanted.

Spend Saturday with a loved one and put past differences behind you. Now is a time for healing.

CANCER
June 21 — July 22

Play your cards close to the vest this week and avoid taking unnecessary chances, especially where love and money are concerned. Don't spout off, no matter how tempted you are.

Physical activities could help relieve tension and bring newfound friendships.

Bowling, walking and jazzercize should be especially rewarding.

LEO
July 23 — Aug. 22

Make no major decisions this week if you can avoid them.

Set short-term goals for yourself and await cosmic changes (coming soon) before etching anything in stone.

Plan time for solitude this weekend. There are some things you need to think over by yourself.

An unexpected communication could bring a smile to your face.

VIRGO
Aug. 23 — Sept. 22

Go get 'em, Virgo! You should be literally bursting with energy this week, so put all that newfound vitality to use by tackling a major chore you've been putting off for way too long.

Make that phone call you've been wanting to make. It is way, way past time.

Something blue could be extremely lucky for you this week.

LIBRA
Sept. 23 — Oct. 22

Someone you love is looking to you to help him (or her) out of a jam. Be compassionate and caring, but don't pull any punches when explaining what must be done to put that person's life back in order.

Don't make any decisions in matters of the heart until later in the week. Your head should be clearer then.

SCORPIO
Oct. 23 — Nov. 21

A lot of false information and false signals could be coming your way this week, so take all communications with a grain of salt. Trust only those who have proven their love and loyalty.

A blue-eyed stranger could enter your life with a bang late in the week. Expect a rewarding friendship to follow.

Someone loves you more than you will ever know.

SAGITTARIUS
Nov. 22 — Dec. 21

Despite what you might think, you are a natural-born leader and now is the perfect time to put your leadership abilities to work. Take charge this week, and reap financial and emotional rewards in the future.

Alcohol and travel could be a dangerous combination on Thursday. Stay close to home if possible. Look to a Taurus for comfort and advice now.

CAPRICORN
Dec. 22 — Jan. 19

Expect surprises this week — and don't be shocked if someone presents you with some welcome financial news. Be alert so you don't let the opportunity slip through your fingers.

Someone attractive and charming has his (or her) eye on you so flash that brilliant smile at every turn.

Family problems should begin to work themselves out late in the week.

AQUARIUS
Jan. 20 — Feb. 18

Your compassionate nature sometimes draws you deep into other people's problems. This normally enviable quality could get you in trouble this week. To put it bluntly, this is a good time to mind your own business.

Take every opportunity to rest this week. You deserve it.

Good luck could come in the form of something shiny.

PISCES
Feb. 19 — Mar. 20

Bored, Pisces? Well, you won't be for long. Events begin unfolding this week that could plunge you into a period of heart-stopping adventure.

An attractive member of the opposite sex will play a most unexpected role in your life this week — and you may not even know it.

A small gamble could pay big rewards.

If your birthday is this week . . .

Minor physical problems confronting you in the summer should give way to robust good health and newfound energy by early fall.

Be wary of a stranger who greets you as a long-lost friend, then tries to borrow money.

Something very exciting happens
